LOCAL PATRIOTISM

There is a certain professor in Eastern Canada who has got himself into trouble by accusing his fellow citizens of a want of local patriotism. He says they have no real or worthy pride in their own city or district, and that this want of local patriotism is general throughout the Dominion. This is rather a new idea and possibly worth some consideration.

In the first place, what is local patriotism? It is certainly not a mere habit of bragging about one's own town on every possible occasion and indulging in vague general comparisons between it and other towns. It is the feeling of the latter, nor does it consist in trying to obtain all the leading positions in the town, either for their emoluments, if they have any, or for social prestige. Local patriotism, like national patriotism, is the best sense in a town or a city or district for its own sake and a willingness to serve it in such capacity as may best contribute to its welfare, even though such service involves trouble and sacrifice. It means giving thought and study to the locality, its history in the past, its present position, its prospects for the future, and the character of the very best out of the place from every standpoint, trying to see that the municipal government is as efficient and harmonious as possible, that all healthy kinds of social activities are carried on as fully as possible, and that individual citizens in difficulties or trouble receive such help or sympathy as is most acceptable. In short, it means an unselfish devotion to the well being of the community.

In the next place comes the question of the truth of the worthy professor's suggestion. It may be that there is a certain amount of truth in it. Ours is a new country, especially in the West which has hardly settled for a full generation in some of its areas. There has not yet perhaps been time for traditions of loyalty and common service to grow up. Our population is largely a floating one. Families and individuals come and go from place to place, inevitably at first their thoughts are directed to the establishment of their own business position, and time is lacking for them to give much attention to the affairs of the town, where they may be either newcomers or there no very deep interest is likely to grow long. Under such conditions it is rather surprising we venture to think, creditable, that our citizens of different kinds have attained such comparative efficiency and success as they have done.

Still, if there is an excuse for our not having progressed further in this respect as yet, that does not mean that we can be satisfied with things as they are. Individualism may be inevitable for a time. It ought not to be a permanent state of things. The more we can cultivate a genuine sense of common interest and common action, the more likely it is to be our progress. Such common interest does not necessarily have its expression in formal organizations. In fact, it is more than possible that we have too many formal organizations and too little of actual sympathetic co-operation. Banquets marked by long and dreary speeches and pompous resolutions are not co-operation. They are often a useless pretense of it, and a great waste of time, leading people to a self-satisfied belief that something is being done, whereas in reality there is a complete absence of solid results.

It is not possible to lay down any hard and fast methods by which local patriotism can be promoted. Like national patriotism, it is a subtle thing to be absorbed half unconsciously, perhaps. All that can be suggested is that broadminded interest and unselfish service are its main and essential components.

WHY NOT A LOCAL MOVING PICTURE INDUSTRY?

It is said that in California the moving picture industry has become the chief and most profitable industry of the State. When the comparatively recent invention of the moving picture is considered, the growth is a remarkable one. Presumably the selection of California as the chief site of the industry is due to two reasons, first, the large amount of sunshine prevailing there, which gives excellent light for taking the pictures, and second, the fine scenery of the State. It is beyond doubt anyhow that the majority of the films seen in Canada are American productions, American in scene and in the life they portray.

Now, this is not as it should be. Canada should be quite capable of producing its own moving pictures, and not need to borrow from the States and thereby support a foreign industry. We know that a few pictures have been successfully taken in Canada. We rather think that there is a moving picture making firm in Calgary, but what we are sure of is that this might, and should, be developed on a much larger scale and that our own city and district of Red Deer is eminently suited for the site of such an industry. We have abundant sunshine. We have attractive local scenery and a few hours' run on the C.N.R. to the West takes one into the finest mountain scenery. We have also a great river, which both in winter and summer might afford an excellent scene for pictures. Those who have seen the moving picture "Way Down East" will remember that its plot is poor and commonplace to the last degree. However, the picture's only real claim to attraction is based on a fine closing scene of a snow storm in which the moving river ice. Both of these features we could provide here as well as anywhere.

Most of us were familiar in our youth with thrilling tales of eluding parties being pursued by hungry wolves. There was one such tale in particular where a father and son and the fugitive elude got out from it and fought the wolves and was torn to bits by them, in order to escape the escape of the rest of the party. Why should such a scene be filmed on the Red Deer river? A well-known fact of Red Deer could not be the wolves and local people might easily represent the feeling party. Of course the bounds might prevent them in their excitement and really attack the actor representing the faithful servant, but perhaps one of our less popular citizens might take this part in case of accident.

Those who would be more thrilling than a picture of our local police force trading down some of our local hoodlums' threat might not be much movement about this picture, but consider the excitement of it. There would be the heroic constables lying in ambush close to the suspect's dwelling and suffering agonies of torture as the snuff of the brewing mash reached their noses and tickled their throats. Then there would be the dramatic arrest of the hoodlums, the trial of the proffered bribe, and the trial of the criminals before one of our local magistrates, and the scene of intense dignity and tragic pathos.

"An irresponsible Compositor," "The Editor is a magistrate. He could come in on this scene."

"You're right. Don't you dare to mention it. People will think that's why I wrote this editorial!"

"Curse my fate, but wait till my back's turned, and I'll print it all the same!"

"That's fine, there would be the last scene when the confiscated liquor was being destroyed. The constables would be standing round weeping bitterly."

"Our L. C. again: 'Would they weep?' Would they not be glad to see the liquor destroyed?"

"You print what I've written, Ralph. Policemen are men just as much as any other men, and they may have a tear over the destruction of a stubborn and attractive foe?"

"The magistrates, a trial of dignity and importance, would first taste the liquor to ascertain definitely its perniciosity, and then they would dip from its lips and put it all into some suitable receptacle, and the picture could be with the orchestra playing the Dead March or some such suitable music."

We have merely sketched out the idea, but we trust that some of our more enterprising citizens will take it up seriously and thus bring a new picture to our city.

"Our L. C. once more: 'Would not a moving picture of the citizens going to their taxes be interesting?' It would, Ralph, but it would take years and years to make, so that's quite impossible."

Hon. T. A. Cramer, at the banquet to Sir Henry Thornton, remarked that it was quite within the capacity of the prairie provinces to produce a billion bushels of wheat in forty years ago Sir Charles Tupper, in advocating the construction of the Canadian Pacific Railway, forecasted a time when the West would produce 600,000,000 bushels of wheat. He was right, for by all the liberal estimates of that day and placed in the same category as Annapolis. Last year the West produced 400,000,000 bushels of wheat, and now Mr. Cramer admits the probability of Sir Charles Tupper's estimate being greatly exceeded.

It was always thus with the Little Canadians of the Liberal party. They say that we trust that some of our more enterprising citizens will take it up seriously and thus bring a new picture to our city.

"Our L. C. once more: 'Would not a moving picture of the citizens going to their taxes be interesting?' It would, Ralph, but it would take years and years to make, so that's quite impossible."

CLERK OF ALBERTA HOUSE UNABLE TO ATTEND OPENING

J. R. Cowell Taken Sick on Train; Make Preparations for Opening

Edmonton, January 19.—John R. Cowell, clerk of the legislature, who was on his way here for the opening of the legislature next Tuesday, was taken very ill on the way and had to be removed from the train. He is now in a hospital in Edmonton.

The wire announcing that Mr. Cowell would not be able to arrive for the opening states that he had a serious attack of pneumonia, and after receiving first aid at Agassiz was taken back to Victoria to his home, where he is now.

This will be the first time since the formation of the province that the opening of the legislature has been interrupted in this manner. It has not been in good health for the last few years, but was feeling well this fall, but at Christmas had an attack of influenza, and it is probable that he has not recovered his strength entirely before getting the pneumonia poisoning on his way east for the opening.

In the meantime R. A. Anderson, assistant clerk of the legislature, will carry on, and it is expected that Mr. Cowell will be here before the session is far advanced.

With the exception of Premier Greenfield, most of the members of the government are this week in Calgary attending the F.P.C. convention.

With the different members taken out of the city so much of late for different conferences and conventions, it has been difficult to get full meetings of the cabinet to consider the various government bills that will be brought in, but there will be a day session at the end of the week, to be in all readiness.

House opening On Tuesday.

The buildings are having a general tidying up, in preparation for the opening, and all will be in readiness by Tuesday.

There will be no invitations to the house of the legislature, with the exception of some extra chairs for the wives of members.

Mr. J. H. Macdonald, minister of agriculture, who is undergoing medical and dental treatment in the hospital, will be in the city for the opening of the legislature, nor for some time after, it is expected.

Alex Ross, minister of public works, is also away from his office this week with a severe cold.

EDMONTON CARNIVAL CITY COUNCIL

The special excursion rates on all railways gives an opportunity for a visit to Edmonton at a reasonable expense. The carnival committee has spared no expense in making up a program that will far out-distance anything of the kind seen in any other city. Several bands, Miss Lamb, Everett McGowan, and Ben Osby, all champion square dancers, and a large number of other orchestras have been engaged. There will be torchlight processions, huge bonfires, and a large number of events of uncommon interest, all in keeping with the carnival spirit.

One of the chief events will be the coronation of the elected Queen and the court, festivities, and the coronation of Queen Victoria in 1837, and some of the most beautiful and original costumes and are actually the identical dresses used at court presentations in the early part of last century. There will be a coronation of the Queen, Little train bearers, etc., thus reproducing as far as possible the actual royal court of the time.

The carnival committee announces that there will be ample accommodation for all visitors, an up-to-date list having been compiled of rooming-houses where rooms can be secured at reasonable rates.

MARKETS THE GREAT NEED

To the Editor of The News:

Sir:—Mr. Welliver's letter has a lot of sense in it. It is a great many, but in his summary he has disregarded the one and most important requisite for the Middle West's further development. We are compelled to realize that at any cost we must have more accessible marketing facilities than we now possess before any further influx of immigration would justify itself. We are by great inland distances (and consequent high transport charges) cut off from profitable trading with the Old World, and by impossible tariffs also cut off from the New. Further immigration under such conditions would not in the end prove salutary and could only for the passing moment bring relief to the conditions prevailing throughout the country.

There are, it is true, future possibilities for the development of which we may have time to wait. But it is not to be denied that the National railway to direct ocean traffic linking P. Williams to the Atlantic seaboard. There is also an opportunity for the National railway to direct itself on an eastern main terminal, nor should we overlook the Hudson Bay development. And last but not least, there must be fostered for the West's future, and the continent, unfettered trade with the one hundred and fifteen million people to the south of us.

The development of any secondary outlet unfortunately lays bare the trust that East is East and West is West on their respective economies. The further prosperity of this country, and the Middle West together, lies in the hands of the one hundred and fifteen million people to the south of us.

The question was laid over to a future meeting of the Council.

The Mayor was pleased that some citizen like Mr. Youmans should take such an interest in city affairs. It was a great incentive for younger men to take a lesson in civic government.

R. Bowers for the Provincial Board of Health, who inspected the city, was received by the Council. With one or two small exceptions the City was in a splendid condition and reflected great credit on Chief Street.

W. B. Lord was present, accompanied by seven Taxpayers who were present for themselves a session of the City Council.

Mr. Lord said it gave him great pleasure to be present. The young men present were very interested in the manner in which city affairs were conducted and he suggested that they attend the Council sessions and witness the conduct of the manner of doing business, and that is what brought them there.

One man came in and said that he was not really a citizen, but Lord on his foresight. It was a great pleasure to have the young men present, and he suggested that they attend the Council sessions and witness the conduct of the manner of doing business, and that is what brought them there.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

The regular meeting of the Second Red Deer Troop of Scouts was held on Friday evening, January 19th, and 11 boys answered the roll.

The evening was spent in passing tales, and only 2 boys remain to pass the tales. They promised to be ready for final exam. next Friday. A new boy passed the Tenderfoot test in fine shape and was invested as a Scout on February 2nd.

The Troop Committee have arranged for a little party on Feb. 2nd, when the boys will be presented with stars and badges won during the past month. They also wish to raise the strength of the Troop by another Patrol, and boys wishing to join this "Go-ahead" Troop should report at once, to Keith Carscadden or Hal Dawe and be at next Friday's meeting.

The Troop hope to get out on Saturday afternoon hikes next month and take instruction from two well-known local naturalists.

On Friday evening, January 12th, Mr. R. L. Gaetz gave the boys a very interesting talk on the History of Red Deer.

Commencing back in 1882, when Fort Edmonton was a trading post, he sketched the country from Calgary north to that point.

In 1883 when the C.P.R. ran into Calgary, freighters began to haul from Calgary to Edmonton instead of from Winnipeg. He traced the trail from Calgary to Lone Pine, now Olds, and the various landmarks to the Red Deer River. He told of the first settlers in the little settlement with only four white women, of the coming of the railway, and of the moving of the village to the present site of our city. He told of the first store erected (which is in use today) and of the various hardships of the early settlers in trading with the Indians and of early elections and other excitements of those by-gone days.

At Last! Records free from obnoxious surface sounds

This illustrates the laminated construction of the New Process Columbia Records.

Columbia New Process Records are proving the sensation of the phonograph world. No matter what records you have had to listen to scratching, scraping sounds that intrude above and through the music. Columbia has removed these disconcerting noises. In their place Columbia New Process Records give you an additional loveliness, exquisite tones, delicate shades of harmony previously lost in surface noises.

A—illustrates the much smoother playing surfaces which are made of a new substance over which the needle travels almost faultlessly.

B—illustrates the much harder, centre core which resists warping.

Here are two new dance records—New Process of course. Come in and hear them.

EXPRESS LEAPS CHASM

London—How a Dublin mail train, carrying 200 passengers, leaped a chasm caused by the destruction of a culvert last week, has just been revealed, says a Press Association dispatch.

A force of irregulars Thursday night dynamited a culvert between Lifford and Templemore, the dispatch states. The rails, badly twisted by the explosion, were left suspended across the gully, and over them the train, speeding at 45 miles an hour, passed in safety. The destroyed culvert was twelve feet in length.

FRANCE AND GERMANY PRACTICALLY AT WAR

From Economic Viewpoint Situation in the Ruhr Distinctly Worse. Nothing Will Induce Germany to Consider Resumption of Payments—France Would Go On to Berlin

London, Jan. 17.—The Berlin government has decided to expel all civilians from Germany and establish practically a state of war against France, aside from fighting, according to a dispatch to the Daily Express from the German capital.

The Times' Düsseldorf correspondent says that from an economic viewpoint the situation in the Ruhr is distinctly worse. German determination is hardening, and the Irish of the population is increasing. Officials state that food prices have risen 50 percent since the occupation, and the requisitioning of hay, straw and gasoline is causing great hardship.

Germans Admired

The correspondent interviewed some of the industrial leaders who attended Thursday's meeting with the French, and they were emphatic in declaring that nothing would induce them to change their attitude or consider resumption of reparations deliveries while the Franco-Belgian troops were in the Ruhr.

Two trade union leaders, whom the correspondent interviewed, also expressed their opposition to the French. They were in close communication with English trade union leaders and would refuse to work overtime for the French while they were many unemployed in England. They expressed indignation at being summoned to Düsseldorf to hear a "cringing statement read by a French general," and declared they would not obey any further summons.

On the other hand, the French are equally determined to enforce their will.

Would Go to Berlin

The correspondent quotes a French general as saying there is nothing to be gained by doing so, and the industrialists to abandon their obstinate attitude.

"Do not think that you would go to Berlin," the correspondent asked. "Most certainly, we will go to Berlin, if necessary," the official replied seriously.

"France and Germany have met in a stern contest of will, and the temper of both sides is rising. Should an open conflict, the situation could hardly be worse."

GLENEL

January 15th, 1923.

Our annual school meeting took place on Friday afternoon, January 12. After the usual business was disposed of, the election of officers took place—J. Webster for three years, and Jos. Ward for two years.

On the same night a banner U.F.A. meeting was held in the school house. Business consisted of selecting committee members: Finance, M. G. Price, Mrs. Shepherd and Mrs. Mitchell. Membership, J. Webster, C. Ward and J. Ward. Mail to the U.F.A. Cuddy, D. Shepherd and W. Pickard. Theatrical, Mrs. Faught, Mrs. Reding and J. Kopp. Entertainment, Mrs. Faught, Mrs. Reding and J. Kopp. Juvenile, Edna Mitchell, Dorothy Faught and Dorothy Edwards.

The appointment of J. Webster to attend the convention at Calgary also took place.

The debate, "Resolved that the government establish a wheat board for 1923," was very ably handled. The judges decided in favor of the affirmative, and anyone having any doubts as to the establishment of a wheat board were thoroughly converted after that night.

Next meeting of the U.F.A. will be held on January 24th, when a program of songs, dialogues, speeches, etc., will be rendered. Everybody welcome.

A meeting of the ratemakers of L. I. D. 333, Div. 1, will be held in the school house on January 20th at 2 p.m.

We are pleased to hear that our late teacher, Mrs. Gill, has been successful in securing a school in the Maydon district and leaves for her new home at once.

We are sorry to hear J. Ward is under the weather.

Visitors: P. T. Edwards and daughter at W. Gillis; R. J. Cuddy at A. Cuddy's; Edwille; George Walton with Mr. Bascombe; Mr. Kennie is visiting his sister, Mrs. C. R. Meyers; Mrs. Dr. Warkie with Mrs. M. Walton, Mount Pleasant; Miss Myra Warkie and Master James Warkie and Mr. W. Gibson, of Innisfail, with Mrs. Dr. Warkie.

F. Rada is still continuing the good work, having trapped twenty-four coyotes to date.

A wee bird has whispered in our ears that wedding bells are going to ring a lot in the near future. Wonder who.

Grim Battle in "Burning Sands"

One of the best catch-as-catch-can fights to be seen on the screen in some time is a feature of George Melford's new Paramount production of "Burning Sands." Both men were in "prime" training, and hardened fighters, and the Legion Stadium, after seeing the film battle, remarked that the fight was one of the most realistic ever seen on the screen.
